

Quality in Practitioner Research

Professor Susan Groundwater Smith, Dr Nicole Mockler and Dr Ruth Reynolds welcome you to a day of interdisciplinary collegial discussions around the theme of quality in practitioner research

21st July, 2010 at the Ourimbah Campus Room CN2: 110

Please come prepared to discuss your research, or research you know of, with respect to these issues:

What is quality in practitioner research?

Practitioner research and ethical practice

How do we ensure quality?

Whose quality?

The politics of practitioner research

Key issues of quality in the individual disciplines - problems for interdisciplinary research.

Registration: 9.30 am

Plenary Session: 3.00pm

This event is free with morning teas and lunch provided but places are limited so please email Ruth.Reynolds@newcastle.edu.au to ensure your invitation.

As well as presentations the emphasis will be on small group discussions around key themes. Materials will be posted out to all invitees before the day.
